

NOT IMPROBABLE.

The Adrian Hatchcock says it requires no great amount of credulity to believe, what a recent number of the New York Herald says has been discovered, that Thurlow Weed, a black republican Ajax of some notoriety, is peculiarly interested in a scheme to revive the African slave trade. The necessity of the party render it not improbable, and when it is remembered that the capital manufacturers of the party have done quite as, if not more dishonest, a very incredulous man might readily believe this charge against the venerable Thurlow. His "good-enough Morgan until after election," was his first effort in that direction and one Redpath has confessed in his book, that he went to Kansas to precipitate a revolution for partisan capital.

More recently it is alleged that the filibuster Walker was a black republican tool, and that his recent abandonment of filibustering was because they could not agree as to the emolument he should receive for an attempt to make a slave state of some of our south-western territory. The fact is, nigger agitation is the entire capital of the party, and without it the party would go to the dogs in less than three months. By investing their money in the slave trade, slavery propagandism, schemes to carry the North against the South, or the employment of emissaries to steal niggers from their masters, or even to inveigle free blacks into slavery, they keep life in the black republican party and strengthen their hope of controlling the spoils of government.—State Journal.

WHY CONTEMPORARY HISTORY SAYS.

—Quite a striking illustration of the truth of Chief Justice Taney's remark—that for more than a century before the Declaration of Independence negroes were regarded as being so far inferior that they were thought to have no rights which the white man was bound to respect—may be found in the journal of the famous anti-revolutionary patriot Josiah Quincy Jr. In the year 1775 he had an interview with the not less famous Col. Barre, at Bath, England, which is thus recorded: Col. Barre said—"About fifteen years ago I was through a considerable part of your country for in the expedition against Canada my business called me to pass by land through Pennsylvania, New York and Albany. When I returned to this country, I was often speaking of America, and could not help speaking well of its climate, soil, and inhabitants; for you must know, sir, America was always a favorite with me; but will you believe it, sir—yet I assure you it is true—more than two-thirds of this island at that time thought the Americans were negroes!" "I replied," said Quincy, "that I did not in the least doubt, if for that I was to judge by the late acts of Parliament I should suppose that a majority of the people of Great Britain still thought so—for I found that their representatives still treated them as such."—The inference from this is inevitable.—Boston Courier.

WORDS OF LEARNED LENGTH.

The number of words in the English language exceeding six syllables in length is very small. "Honorableabundantly," which is the only English word of eleven syllables that has ever come under my notice.—In other languages still longer words are to be found. "Don Juan Nepomuceno de Burionagatrecogreogocoecha," was the name of a person employed in the Finance Department of Spain a few years ago. He ought to have been superintendent of "Kaminagadeathoroooomookanooogonagora," or of "Aradem-aravaseleovandorayouon," two estates in the East Indies, respecting which a law suit was pending in the English courts while he was administering Spanish finances.

WHY SO MUCH BEAUTY IN POLAND.

"Because" (says Bayard Taylor) "there, girls do not run and jump from infancy to young ladyhood. They are not sent from the cradle to the parlor, to dress, to sit still and look pretty. No, they are treated as children should be. During childhood, which extends through a period of several years, they are plainly and loosely dressed, and allowed to run, romp and play in the open air. They are not loaded down, gilded about and oppressed every way with countless frills and superabundant finesses, so as to be admired for their much clothing. Nor are they rendered delicate nor dispersive by continual stuffing with candies and sweet cakes, as are the majority of American children. Plain, simple food, free and various exercise, and an abundance of sunshine during the whole period of childhood, are the secrets of beauty in after life.

A Wesleyan minister at the West, who lived on a small salary, was troubled in getting his quarterly instalments. He at last told the non-paying trustees that he must have his money, as his family were suffering for the necessities of life. "Money," replied the steward, "you preach for money? I thought you preached for the good of souls?" "Souls?" replied the minister, "I can't eat souls; and if I could, it would take a thousand such as yours to make a meal."

We heard a lawyer and a doctor disputing the other day about a bill a fellow owed each of them. He was only able to pay one of them and left it to them to settle which ought to have the money. Of course, said the lawyer, I saved the fellow from going to the penitentiary. "Well," said the doctor, "I have saved him from going to hell!" It is needless to add who got the money.

Ethan Spike, of Hornby, says: I do not think that all the figures of the many janes, which light fanes, are capable of doing, which is the most graceful. The bull figures—as I understand it—is both simple and natural. It's huggin—that's what it is. Soets just make themselves into verbs active and passive they hug and get hugged. It's real good and I like it, though I must say that's rather more satisfaction huggin a girl to hum than right out afore folks.

Mr. Benjamin Gilling recently presented to the poor of the city of Liverpool two hundred pounds. A good B. Gilling.

ALL SORTS OF PARAGRAPHS.

Barry has been successful in London in taming a vicious horse, the "King of Oude." The News says the unbroken fairly trembled when he unlocked the iron pole, gave it to the groom, and with not even a stick in his hand, stood in the ring with that screaming savage of a horse, and then fairly outmaneuvered him by his weird-like tact.

A drove of sheep were grazing in a meadow near Philadelphia during a very severe thunder storm, a few days since. There was a hickory tree in the meadow, and a lightning bolt descended upon its topmost branch. A moment afterward, eighty-five sheep, who had sought shelter lay dead. Two of those farthest from the tree had been struck while running hither, and died with their limbs extended from under them, as though a heavy weight falling upon their backs had crushed them down. With the exception of one sheep, who stood touching the trunk of the tree with its body, not a lock of their fleeces was ruffled. They all lay in their natural recumbent position, with their eyes open, and, to all appearances, tranquilly reposing.

The Washington Star enumerates some of the recent contributions of blocks to the Washington Monument:—

One is a block of carved marble, in which is inserted a curiously carved head with this inscription beneath: "This head was carved between two and three thousand years ago by the ancient Egyptians or their temple erected in honor of Augustus on the banks of the Nile. Brought from here by J. F. Lennan, and presented to the Washington Monument, 1858.

A block from the citizens of the United States residing in Foo-chow-fu, China. One from the Greek Government. A block from the Temple of Esculapius, Island of Paros, presented by the officers of the steam frigate Saranac, 1855.

Another from the Governor and Commune of the Island of Paros and Naxos, Grecian Archipelago."

The curious effects of a sprain are related by the Springfield Republican, which says, "a young domestic in a family in this city complained a few nights since of having sprained her ankle and said the injury had struck her to her stomach. An external application to the limb so far relieved her that she went to bed, in the course of the night, however, she was so sick that a physician was called, but he could only give relief then, after a pair of little ankles had appeared to the astonished gaze of the family with whom the girl lived."

The Independent is unfavorably affected by the hot weather. It says that Theodore Parker's last book "in egotism, malignity, censoriousness and irreverence, must take rank with the worst effusions of Thomas Paine;" that he is "in the lowest grades of infidelity, conceited, boisterous, discourteous, declamatory, profane;" and that Dr. Holmes is "not one whit behind him in conceit and malignity against the Bible."

Mr. Jones, a dairyman of Baltimore found burglars in his room one night last week. He jumped out of bed, and in his night gown valiantly attacked them. As he approached a pistol was fired at him, but, unharmed, he caught one thief by the throat, and while struggling was stabbed by a second. A third snatched a pistol at Mr. Jones, who fought like a lion, dealing blows right and left with a chair until knocked senseless by a blow from a slung shot. The robbers finally escaped with $1150 in gold, a gold watch and chain worth $285, and two new Colt's revolvers, leaving in their flight a bowie knife, a cheese knife and a pistol of their own.

A convention has just concluded between Mr. Wyke British Charge d'Affaires in Guatemala, and the government of that so-called Republic, of more than ordinary importance, by the terms of which Guatemala cedes to Great Britain the absolute right of sovereignty in and over the district of territory hitherto known as British Honduras, or Belize. The cession comprehends the entire coast from the southernmost limits of Yucatan downwards to the Saraton river, with the adjacent islands—altogether an extent of seacoast of not less than one hundred and sixty miles in a right line.

The "belle Gabrielle" is of rice straw, lavishly decorated with field flowers and coquettish, sheaves of wheat, blue bells, &c., and is a lady's hat!

The Hartford Times says that 10,000 revolving rifles are being made at Colt's Armory, for the British government. They are provided with the sword bayonet.

Green, the Reformed Gambler, is Postmaster in Iowa and has occupied his leisure moments in inventing tips for billiard cues and a new kind of letter envelope.

An up country California paper mentions in the same paragraph mosquitoes so large that they can stand on their hind legs and drink out of a pint cup and a strawberry eight inches in circumference.

Paddy and Larder Snap.—At a criminal court lately, the counsel, dissatisfied at his want of success with an Irish witness, complained to the court.

Here Paddy let in with genuine Irish brogue: "An sure I'm no lawyer, yer honor, an' the spalpane only wants to bother me."

Lawyer Snap. "Come now, do you swear you are no lawyer?"

Witness. "Faix and I do; and ye may swear the same about yourself, too, without fear of perjury."

New Invention.—A Yankee has invented an eight day clock that runs sixteen days, winds itself up every twenty-four hours striking in prayer time, gives two quart of milk every night, does its own churning, and if placed in this dining-room, will say grace when the head of the family is away. Patent right secured.

Messrs J. M. Root, Robert Hogg, and J. H. Dyre, are all candidates in one county for the Wisconsin Legislature. We suppose on the day of the election it will be Root, Hog, or Dyre.

H. MARKS' EMPORIUM.

Genesee St., East Saginaw, Mich.

IS THE PLACE TO BUY CLOTHING, Hats, Caps and FURNISHING GOODS.

MACHINE POETRY.—A LA HIAWATHA.

Here's the place to buy your toggery, Buy your vests and buy your breeches, Buy your shirts and fancy fixings, Buy your caps and buy your chapeaus, Buy your garments big and little, As high as any steeps, Or as low as the bayou, All goods sold low or lower than the lowest, Dares to dealer in this store, Dares to sell his traps and plunder, Opposition, "stand from under!" Make it be as who can paddle, His own good ship, his own stanch hooker, Boots and shoes for gents and ladies, Children and youth and little babies, Marks has, and he is bound to sell 'em Cheaper than the other trades, Who can only barely waddle, While he'll "just get up and kaddish!" Frags his hat, and he is bound to sell 'em Cheaper than the other trades, For he carries piles of canvas, And "goes in" upon his muscled, Come along and see our goods, For goods that came by the Kalamazoo, Goods that come v-a-j-a Godechik, That's the route to bring your freight on, Always smart and always certain, Far across the raging Haron, But the God of navigation Likes the style of the Kalamazoo, Likes her owners and her captain, And he knows every package, Every box and every barrel, That comes that way, most truly, But the machine is quite unruly, So I'll show my whistle and Shut off.

MECHANICS, Inventors, Manufacturers, Farmers AND MILLWRIGHTS. PROSPECTUS OF THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.

THIS WORK DIFFERS MATERIALLY from other publications, being an illustrated Periodical, devoted to the promulgation of information relating to the various Mechanical and Chemical Arts, Manufactures, Agriculture, Patents, Inventions, Engineering, Mill Work, and all interests which the light of PRACTICAL SCIENCE is calculated to advance.

Every number of the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN contains sixteen pages of reading matter, abundantly illustrated with from eight to ten ENGRAVINGS—all of which are expressly engraved for this publication. All the most valuable patented discoveries are delineated and described in its issues, so that, as respects inventions, it may be justly regarded as an Illustrated Repository, where the inventor may learn what has been done before him in the same field which he is exploring, and where he may bring to the world a knowledge of his own achievements.

Reports of American Patents granted are also published every week, including Official Copies of all the PATENT CLAIMS. These Patent Claims are furnished from the Patent Office Records expressly for this paper, and published in the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN in advance of all other publications.

The contributors to the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN are among the most eminent scientific and practical men of the time. The editorial management is universally acknowledged to be conducted with great ability and to be distinguished not only for the excellence and truthfulness of its discussions, but for the forcefulness with which error is combated and false theories are exposed.

Mechanics, Inventors, Engineers, Chemists, Manufacturers, Agriculturists, and persons in every branch of life, will find the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN to be of great value in their respective callings. Its contents and suggestions will save them hundreds of dollars annually, besides every Inventor, Mechanic, Artisan, and Engineer in the United States should patronize the publication in so thoroughly known throughout the country that we refrain from occupying further column of seven cents, to pay the postage.

The form of the journal, it will be observed by the readers of the SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN, is somewhat unusual, and is calculated to render it better adapted for binding and preservation, and instead of eight pages in each number as before, it contains sixteen, and in a completed year the number of pages will be doubled to 322, or 416 more than heretofore.

THE PUBLIC are invited to call and see the Lamps in operation. Much of the comfort of every household depends on being able to have, at night, a BRILLIANT, CHEAP, CLEAN AND SAFE LIGHT. Sperm Oil is not only dirty and unpleasant, but very expensive, while candles, of whatever kind, are liable to the same objections in a still greater degree. Camphene and burning fluids are not only expensive, BUT SO EXTREMELY DANGEROUS, that no prudent person will use them at all; so that, in fact, no material has heretofore been offered to the public capable of producing such a light as KEROSENE OIL. It gives a better and more brilliant light than any other substance known, at less than one half the cost of candles, and is entirely clean, gives out no odor, will not smother in any disease, and is perfectly safe, in any hands—it being impossible for it to explode or to be suddenly inflamed.
